countdown clock

In the year 2000 world leaders signed up to the Millennium Declaration. It's an international agreement that aims to halve world poverty by 2015 and end it altogether by 2025.

But time is running out.

Stand Up And Take Action Against Poverty is an event that will remind world leaders of their commitment to the Millennium Declaration, and that time is ticking away. Imagine a tsunami every week. That's poverty. It kills more people every year than war.

But it's so easy for you to help. We don't want money. We don't actually want that much time – just a few minutes will do. All you have to do is Stand Up and submit a picture of yourself holding a number. That's it. You will become the countdown to 2015. Using all the pictures we receive, the ONE (SINGAPORE) countdown clock will then show world leaders exactly how long they have left – person by person, second by second, one by one.

Please, Stand Up and be counted.
